Does this product contain sugar? It tastes distinctly sweet compared to Baidyanath or Telephone brands.

The 1mg page listing the product says:

Key Ingredients: Isabgol - 49.0g, Senna 19-0g, Kala Namak 7.8g, Saunf 8.0g, Trifala 6.5g, Ajwain 6.5g, Mulethi 2.0g, Nimbu ka satva 1.0g, Excipients-q.s.

It does not say what weight of the product is decomposed into the above ingredients, but the total is 99.8 g, so let's assume 100 g. This list does not include sugar.

I hope "19-0g" means nineteen grams.

However, the product label on the jar (scanned and attached) says:

Each 100g contains powder of the following:
Isabgol (Plantago ovata, Sd. Husk) 49g
Amla (Emblica officinalis, P.) 1.0g
Permitted Excipients: Q.S
Preservatives: Sodium Methyl Paraben I.P.
Sodium Propyl Paraben I.P.

Leaving completely unclear what is in the remaining 50 g!

Also, 1mg does not list any Amla.

Only the 49 g of Isabgol is (fortunately) common between the two.

Can you please clean up your act?
